1. For every element that you are trying to sort, search the rest of the elements for an identical element to the one currently being sorted. If there is one, move it next to the current element and then ignore it. That way, Treesort will still sort all the elements and all identical elements will still be in the correct sorted positions right next to their identical counterparts. Unfortunately, this does make it much less efficient with sorting.